MPC Video Renderer is designed to deliver flawless, high-quality video rendering for any DirectShow multimedia player. However, full support is only provided only for Media Player Classic – Black Edition. It is recommended you use version 1.5.5.5342 or later of the MPC – BE. A video renderer is meant to process a video file sequence by sequence, sending it to the video display controller. This makes it possible for the video player to display the video on your computer screen. DirectShow comes with its own filters to render videos on screen, such as VMR-7, VMR-9 or EVR. However, one can also install third-party video renderers if you need custom preferences. MPC Video Renderer can be easily deployed in Windows. You only need to double click on the "install" file and the setup starts instantly, showing you its status in a console-like window. It is designed to work with Windows versions later than 7 (at least Windows 8.1 is recommended) that runs on a system equipped with an SSE2-capable CPU and a DirectX 9 video card (DirectX 10 or 11 is recommended). Please keep in mind that for Windows 7, the D3DCompiler_47.dll file must be present for the renderer to work. The file can be installed in the KB4019990 update of Windows.
